In line with this theme, stakeholders are invited to showcase their research, training, development activities, innovations, products and services. RUFORUM therefore, invites interested institutions including universities, research institutions, development actors, private sector, civil society, individuals, and the general public including farmer groups to respond to this call for exhibitions to showcase and display their products and services. To facilitate vibrant interactions between the exhibitors and the on and off site delegates, the AGM organizers will, to the extent possible, integrate social media reporting within the exhibition to enhance visibility and sharing of key messages beyond the on-site conference. The exhibition will run throughout the conference and special time will be allocated in the conference programme for delegates to visit the stands. Additional conference activities will be carried out in the exhibition area to attract the delegates to the exhibitions. A catalogue containing profiles of all the exhibitors will also be published and shared with delegates.

The cost of each booth and associated facilities is US$ 250 (155,000 CFA). Each exhibitor must also register at a fee of US$ 250 prior to the event using this link. Other costs pertaining to travel, accommodation and out of pocket allowances will be covered by the exhibitor.
